Overview:

The Donlin Gold Project EIS presentation was given on Wednesday, November 19, 2014, in Stony River, Alaska. Tribal Administrator Mary Willis had publicized the meeting well, resulting in very good attendance.

The presentation included a summary of the project components, an overview of the EIS process, a synthesis of the scoping comments, and the process for developing alternatives, the TEK workshops, the fish studies this summer and a means of contact at the Corps.

The people in attendance were familiar with the project, since some residents and kin group members had worked at the Donlin Gold Camp. They were also very interested in how the EIS process unfolds. There were no formal questions.

Donne closed by expressing appreciation to the folks who joined us for the presentation. She invited people to contact her with any new questions that they want to know about. She offered to visit another time, if the Council wants.
